Help and Tips for Calling from your Mobile

Using this service from your mobile gives you massive savings compared with international mobile tariffs of the main UK mobile operators. Here are some hints and tips that'll help you make the most of cheaper calls.

Are 0844 and 0870 numbers part of your free minutes?

It was the case that with some mobile tariffs, UK National 0844 calls, and with BT 0870 are included in the numbers you can call as part of your free minutes. These services are no longer available as of 31st July 2009. If you are not sure please make sure you check rates with your mobile service provider before making your call.

Program your mobile and always make a saving

For numbers you call often, there's a way you can make savings every time you call. Simply program the access number together with the destination number into your mobile.

How to program your handset

For example - let's say you want to call your mum in Australia. Then:

1. Create a new entry called 'Australian Office' in your handset's phone book
2. Enter the cheap tariff access number - e.g. 0844 570 8621
3. Enter a 'pause' by doing the following, depending on the handset you own:

Nokia handsets	Siemens / Panasonic handsets	Motorola / Sony Ericsson handsets
A 'p' should appear after you press * three times	A '+' should appear after you press and hold 0	A 'p' should appear after you press and hold *

4. Now enter the international number in full including the 00 prefix
5. Press 'save' and this number will be saved to your phone book

So go on – save with www.skinttariffs.com!

For detailed instructions about creating entries in your handset's phone book, please consult your mobile phone instruction manual or contact your handset manufacturer.
